YOUR PARENTING PROFILE

The Bolu Kukus

F G D N

Steams quietly, then blooms on its own, trust, in full effect.

YOUR CODE

Your four letters

Your code is built from four research-backed parenting dimensions. Neither pole of any dimension is the better one.

F — HOW YOU ORGANIZE THE DAY
Flow

G — WHO SETS THE DIRECTION
Gardener

D — WHEN THE FEELINGS GET BIG
Doer

N — COMFORT ZONE OR STRETCH ZONE
Nester

For fun & reflection — not a clinical assessment or diagnostic tool.

AN EVERYDAY STORY

The Tower Built Without Help

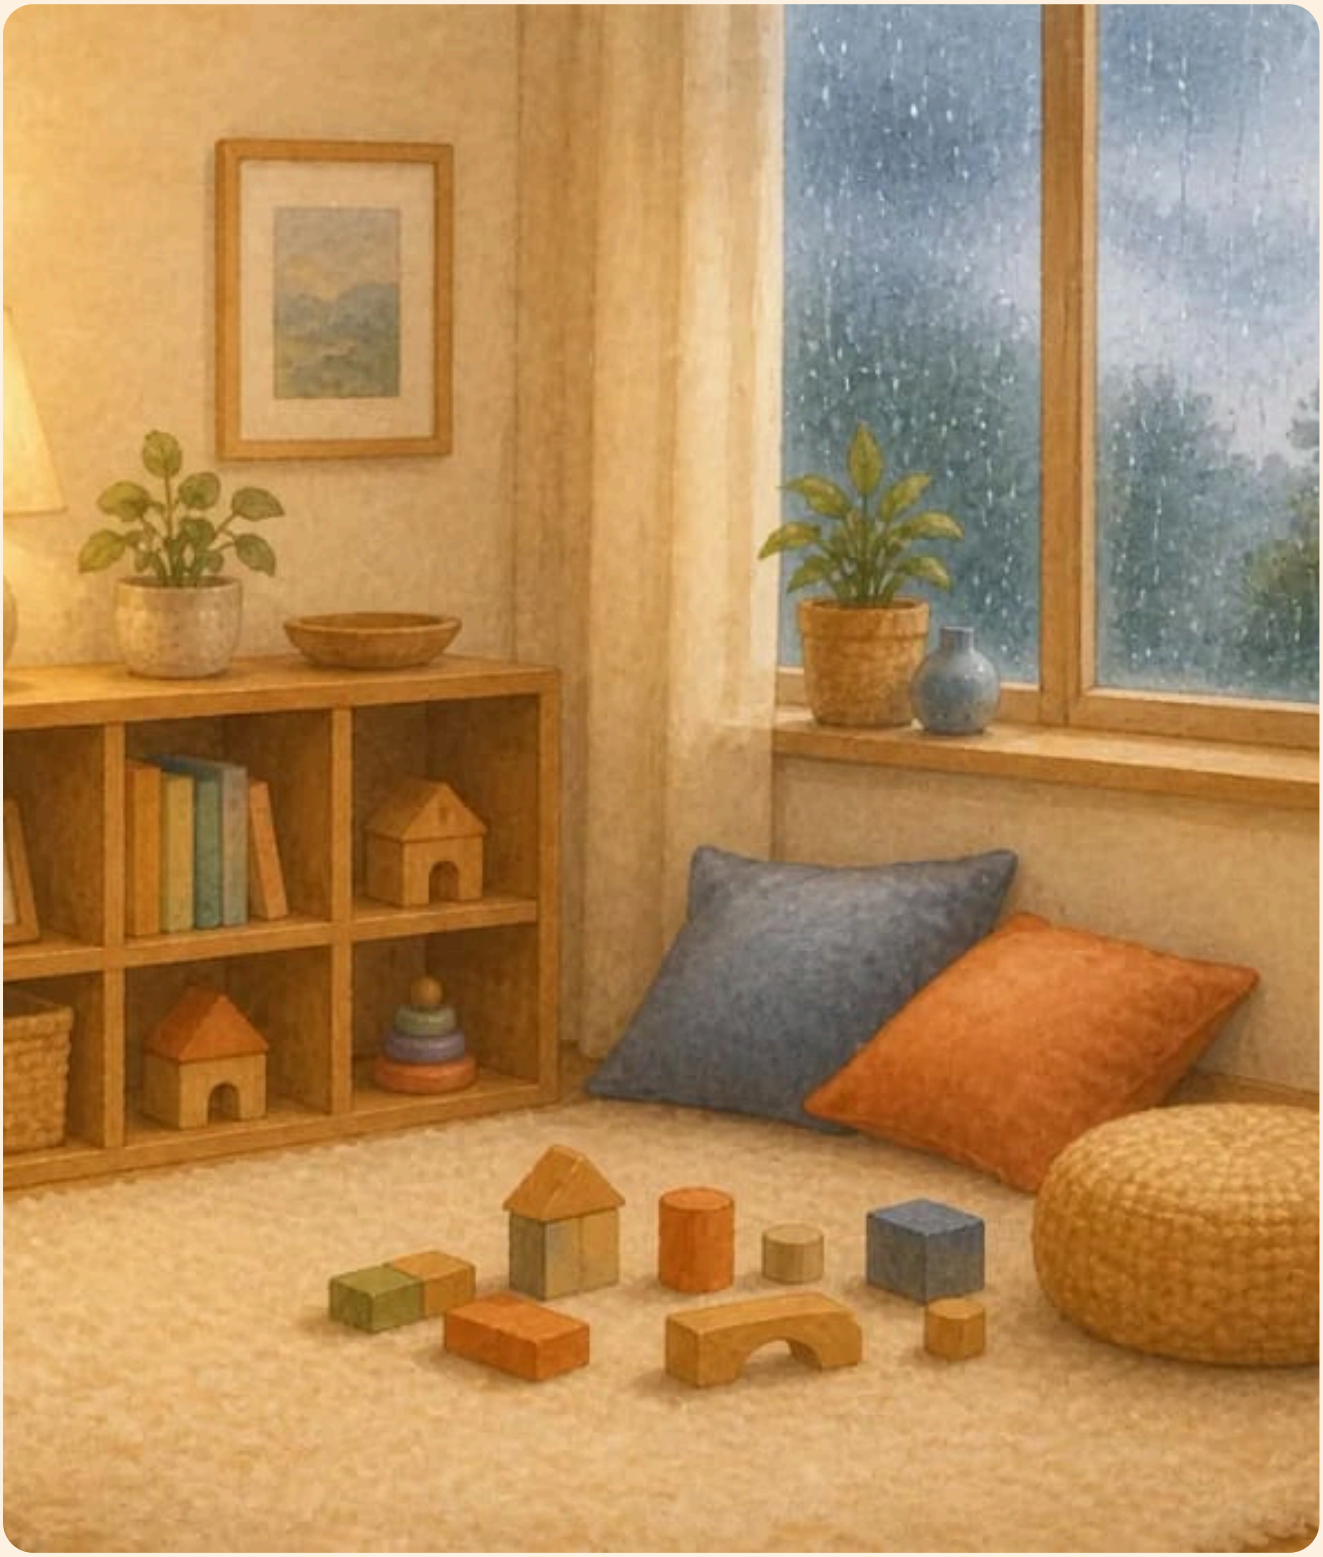

Your child has been building a block tower alone for twenty minutes. You sit nearby answering one email, then another. On your feed, someone is teaching letters through an elaborate sensory game. Guilt looks at the quiet room and asks: Shouldn't I be doing more?

As a Bolu Kukus parent, you believe growth needs room. You resist correcting every move and trust that a child can discover their own way. In a culture that treats constant stimulation as proof of love, quiet confidence can be mistaken for absence, even by you.

You close the laptop, but you do not take over. First, you use five minutes of the space you have given your child to rest your eyes. Then you sit closer and say, “I see how hard you're working. I'm here if you need me.”

The tower falls. Your child studies the pieces and begins again without looking for rescue. You are not doing nothing. You are witnessing, trusting, and staying reachable. Presence does not always have busy hands. Sometimes it is simply the warm steam around something that is learning to rise on its own.

WHAT OFTEN HAPPENS

You give your child generous space to find their own way. Under pressure to constantly stimulate, teach, and supervise, you may wonder whether you are doing enough.

RELEASE THE GUILT

Not intervening every moment does not mean you do not care. Trust is also involvement, as long as your child can still feel your presence.

YOUR SUPERPOWERS

1. Master of letting kids figure it out
2. Judgment-free home base
3. Low-pressure joy, every day

WATCH-OUT, WITH LOVE

Hands-off can read as far-away. Narrate your presence: "I'm right here." 🌸

YOUR POP-CULTURE COUSIN

Panda / free-range blend

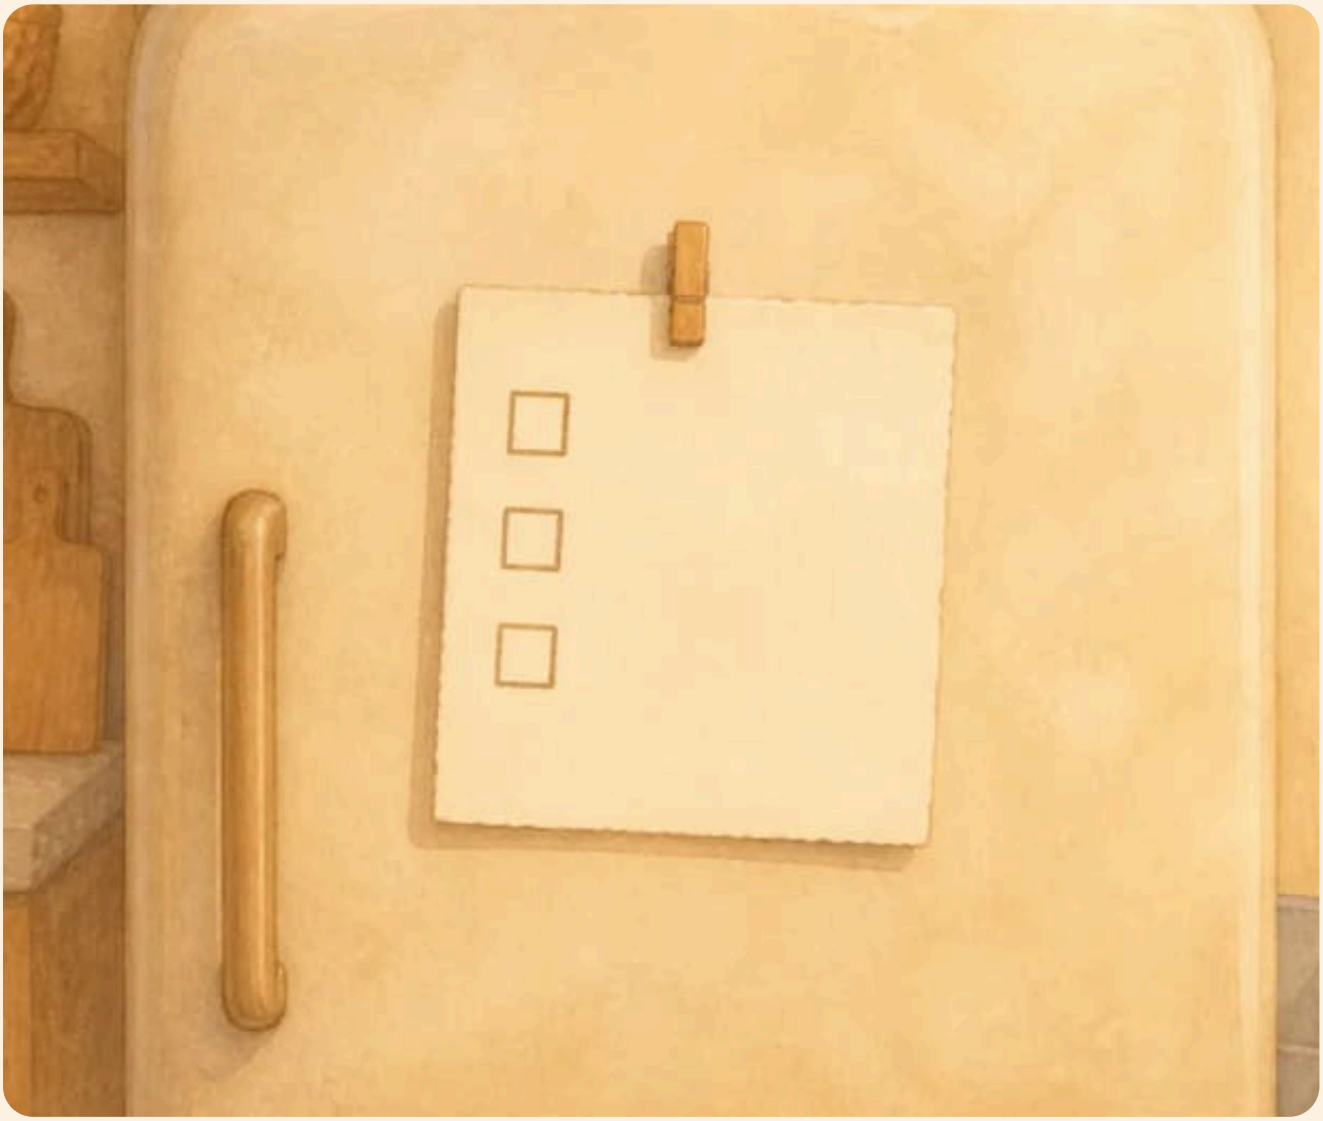

WHAT TO REMEMBER

Try this week

- [ ] Take one pause without being productive
- [ ] Observe before helping
- [ ] Say: “I see you working on it. I am here if you need me.”

EXTRAS FOR YOUR STYLE

- [ ] Write the three things that will definitely happen tomorrow, and stick it on the fridge.
- [ ] Once this week, decide without offering a choice.
- [ ] Ask once: "Do you want a hug, or a minute first?"
- [ ] Hold back one "be careful" today.

FOR YOU FIRST

5 ways to come back to yourself

Chosen from your style: what you spend yourself on is what needs releasing. Not one of these is for your child.

There's an order most of us have backwards: everyone else gets looked after first, and you get whatever is left. But what's left at nine at night isn't you — it's the part of you that never got to rest.

The next five pages don't ask you to be a better parent. Nothing here is counted, nothing is reported, and not one of them is for your child. They're all for you, and they aren't a reward you have to earn first.

What's on them isn't random either. Every parenting style spends itself differently: some parents run out from anticipating, some from deciding, some from holding everybody's feelings. So whatever drains you most is also what most needs releasing.

WHAT DRAINS YOU MOST

F — HOW YOU ORGANIZE THE DAY

Deciding without a rail. Every hour asks for a fresh decision.

G — WHO SETS THE DIRECTION

Waiting and holding back. Following someone else's pace all day is work.

D — WHEN THE FEELINGS GET BIG

Doing. Loving through action means you rarely get to sit down.

N — COMFORT ZONE OR STRETCH ZONE

Vigilance. Everyone's sense of safety is parked with you.

FOR YOU FIRST

Use some of the space you give your child to restore yourself instead of quietly filling it with more work.

HOW TO USE THESE

Take just one. If only one of these gets used this week, that worked. The rest stay here; they aren't going anywhere.

No time this week? You are still enough.

TIME 5 MIN

One drink while it's still hot

Almost every parent drinks their coffee cold. Not from lack of time, but because there is always one more thing that comes first.

Sit down. Finish the whole thing at its actual temperature, doing nothing else at the same time.

TIME 2 MIN

One anchor for tomorrow

You decide all day because your day has no rail. One fixed point isn't a schedule; it's one less decision.

Pick one thing that will happen at the same time tomorrow. The same breakfast, the same song, the same walk.

TIME 2 MIN

One decision that is only yours

You spend the day following everyone else's pace. One small uncompromised choice gives back something invisible.

Decide one thing today with nobody consulted: the song, the drink, the window open or closed.

TIME 5 MIN

Sit with no task

You love by doing — fixing, tidying, preparing. Sitting still feels wrong precisely because it's what you're short of.

Sit down with nothing in your hands. Not a phone, not folding, not planning. Five minutes of no output.

TIME 10 MIN

One step outside

Your vigilance never clocks out. When another trusted adult takes over, ten minutes outside reminds your body that not everything has to stay under your watch.

Ask another trusted adult to take over, then step outside for ten minutes with your phone still on in your pocket. If you're the only adult home, sit by an open window instead.

5 activities with your child (0–5)

One for each age range, so you can take the one that fits your child right now. Everything is already in your house.

THEN, FOR YOUR CHILD

Your child receives autonomy and also needs simple signs that you see them, are interested, and are ready to help when asked.

0–12 MONTHS · 5 MIN

Peekaboo, with a scarf

The oldest turn-taking game there is, played at your baby's pace instead of yours.

1. Drape a light scarf over your own face, not theirs.
2. Wait for their sound or reach before you reveal.
3. Stop the moment they look away — that's them saying done.

You'll need: One light, breathable scarf.
Safety first: The scarf goes over you, never the baby. Never leave fabric on or near a baby's face.
Grounded in: Serve and return (Harvard)

1–2 YEARS · 10 MIN

Hand me the laundry

Real work, done together, with no standard to meet. Toddlers want to take part, not to be entertained.

1. Sit by the basket and hand them one item at a time.
2. Let them put it in the machine or the pile.
3. Thank them for the work, not for doing it neatly.

You'll need: The laundry you already have.
Safety first: Machine door closed and off when unattended. Keep detergent capsules completely out of the room.
Grounded in: Montessori — practical life

2–3 YEARS · 15 MIN

Build the calm basket together

Assembling the box while nobody is upset works far better than looking for it mid-meltdown.

1. Offer a basket and ask what helps when their feelings get big.
2. Put in whatever they say, even if it seems useless to you.
3. Name the feelings that come up as you talk, without fixing them.

You'll need: A basket, plus their choices: a soft toy, a picture, a squeeze ball, a blanket.

Safety first: Every loose item must be too large for a toilet-paper tube. Nothing that can be tied, wrapped, or pulled over the head.

Grounded in: Play therapy — reflecting feelings

3–4 YEARS · 15 MIN

Give the toys a bath

Real work with real water — exactly how Doer parents love, and children this age will stay with it for a long time.

1. A basin of warm water, a soft brush, a towel.
2. They wash, you wash beside them without supervising the quality.
3. When they say a toy is clean, it's clean.

You'll need: A basin, warm water, a soft brush, a towel, washable toys.

Safety first: Shallow water, never unattended. No electronic toys.

Grounded in: Montessori — practical life

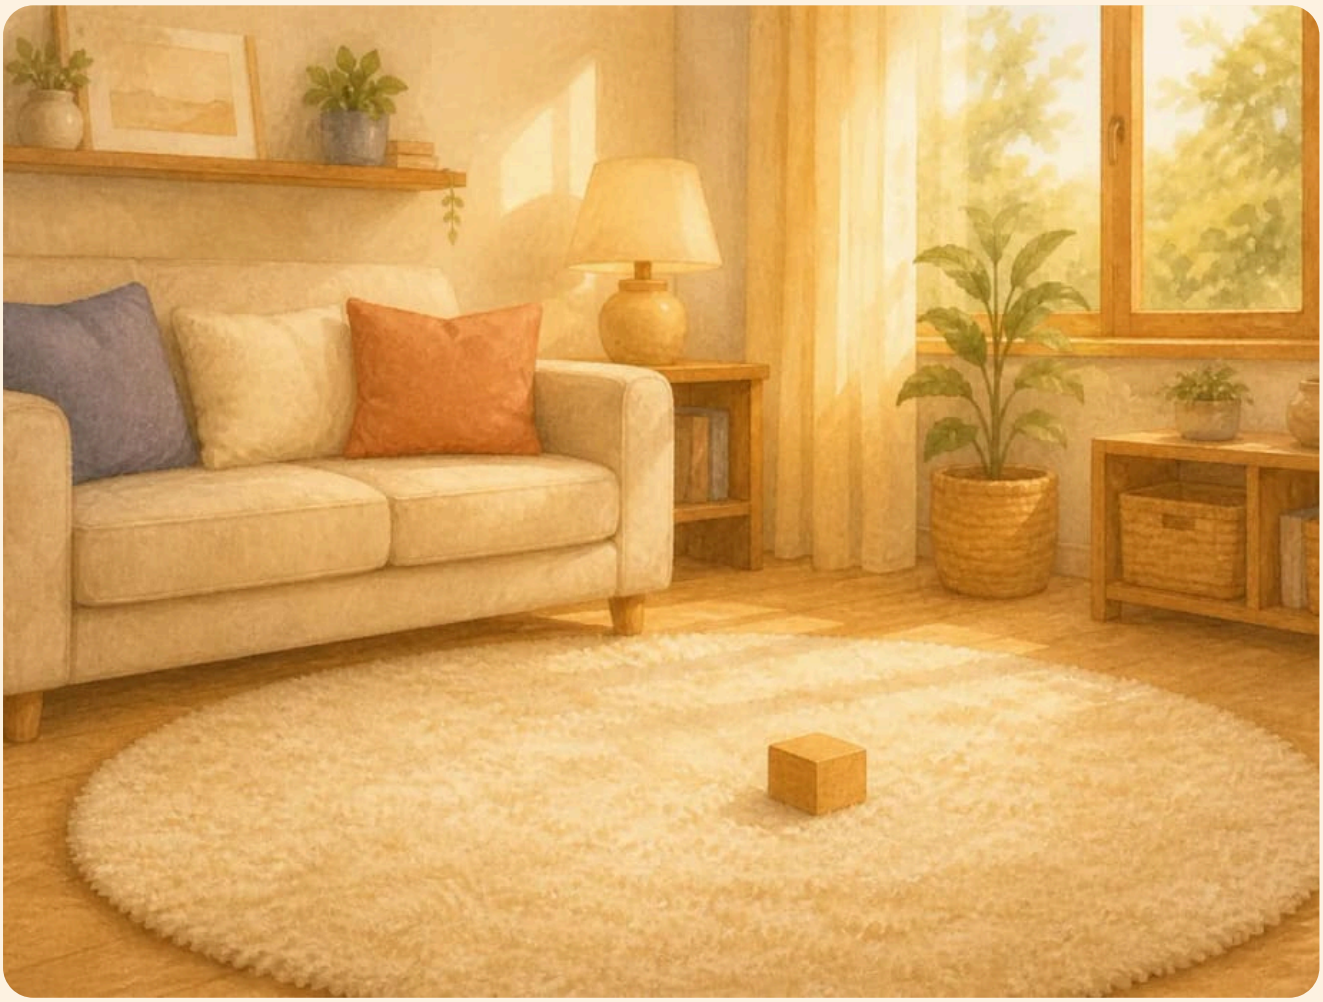

4–5 YEARS · 15 MIN

One real step in the cooking

Not pretend cooking. One genuine step of the meal the family actually eats, done by them.

1. Choose one safe step: tearing lettuce, peeling a banana, spreading butter, stirring off the heat.
2. Give them the real tool, child-sized if you have one.
3. At the table, say out loud which part they made.

You'll need: Whatever you're already cooking.
Safety first: Nothing at the stove, nothing sharp, nothing hot. Hands washed, and an adult stays in the kitchen.
Grounded in: Montessori — practical life

No play today? You are still enough.

Keep it, print it, or forget it

This booklet has no targets and counts nothing. Take the one thing that helps and leave the rest.

SUPPORT PARENTEERS

saweria.co/parenteers

Your support helps us keep creating useful products for more parents.

@parenteers parenteers.id

Made with ❤️ (and cold coffee) by Parenteers · © Parenteers 2026

For fun & reflection — not a clinical assessment or diagnostic tool.