YOUR PARENTING PROFILE

The Baguette

P C D E

Crisp outside, simple goodness inside, ready to go anywhere.

Your four letters

Your code is built from four research-backed parenting dimensions. Neither pole of any dimension is the better one.

P — HOW YOU ORGANIZE THE DAY
Planner

C — WHO SETS THE DIRECTION
Captain

D — WHEN THE FEELINGS GET BIG
Doer

E — COMFORT ZONE OR STRETCH ZONE
Explorer

For fun & reflection — not a clinical assessment or diagnostic tool.

AN EVERYDAY STORY

The Bandage in the Front Pocket

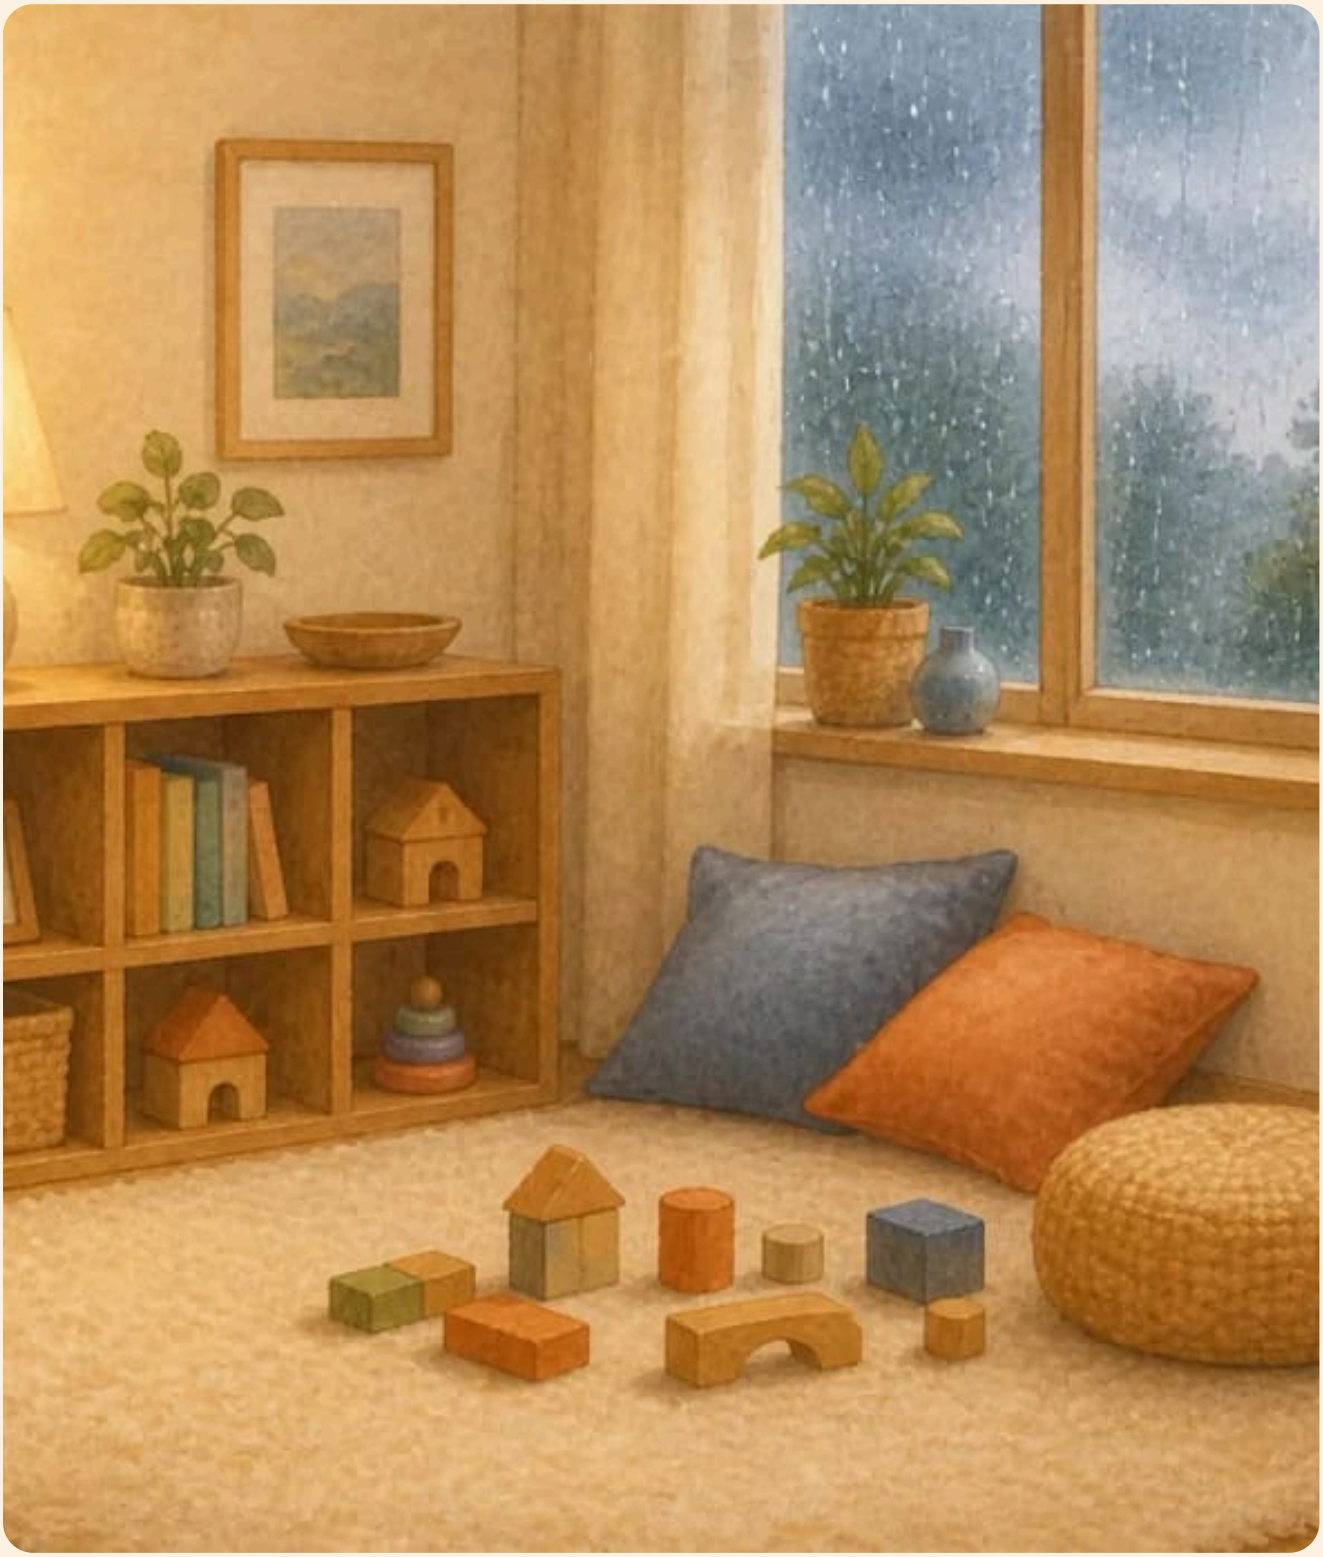

At the playground, your child slips from the lowest step. Before the tears fully arrive, you already have the water bottle open and a bandage from the front pocket. “You're okay. Clean it, cover it, back to playing.” Everything practical is handled in under a minute. Still, your child stays quiet beside you.

On the way home, guilt starts rewriting the scene: Maybe I was too cold. Maybe a better parent would have known exactly what to say.

As a Baguette parent, you show love through readiness. Your care often looks like packed snacks, clear decisions, and hands that move quickly when something goes wrong. That love is real; it simply needs one small pause beside the solution.

At the red light, you turn back. “That fall scared you, huh?” Your child nods and finally tells you how high the step felt. Nothing needed a long speech. The bandage had cared for the knee; one question cared for the moment. You do not need to become a different kind of parent. You only need to let your capable hands arrive half a breath after your heart.

WHAT OFTEN HAPPENS

You are used to being the person who knows what to do. Logistics handled, decisions made, problems solved, until you feel guilty for not always having gentle words ready.

RELEASE THE GUILT

Love does not only sound like a long conversation; it often looks like a packed bag and capable hands. You are not cold, you may only need a little space before the solution.

YOUR SUPERPOWERS

1. Decisive, your kid always knows the plan
2. Adventure logistics? Handled. Snacks? Packed.
3. Calm and practical, even on the move

WATCH-OUT, WITH LOVE

You fix things fast, sometimes feelings just want to be heard first. One "how did that feel?" goes a long way. 💬

YOUR POP-CULTURE COUSIN

Coach-captain parent

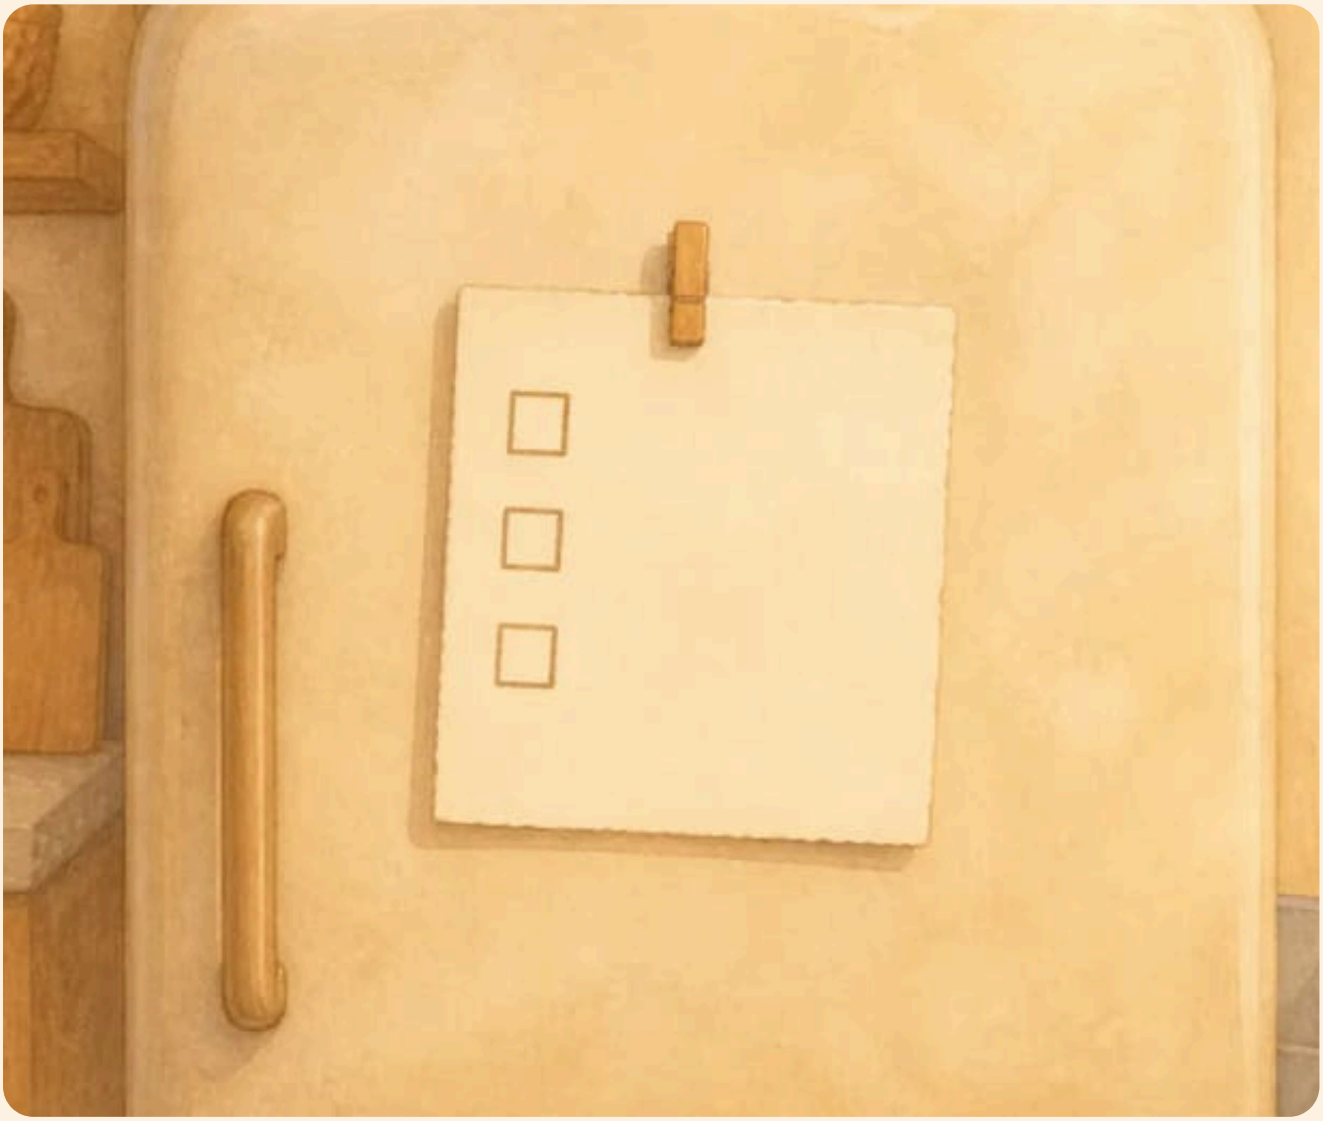

WHAT TO REMEMBER

Try this week

- [ ] Delegate one practical task
- [ ] Take one breath before offering a solution
- [ ] Try: “You are disappointed, would you like a hug or some help?”

EXTRAS FOR YOUR STYLE

- [ ] Let one plan change without correcting it.
- [ ] Give your child one genuine choice today — one where you'd accept either answer.
- [ ] Before you fix it, say one feeling word first.
- [ ] Stop at the first try if they say that's enough.

FOR YOU FIRST

5 ways to come back to yourself

Chosen from your style: what you spend yourself on is what needs releasing. Not one of these is for your child.

There's an order most of us have backwards: everyone else gets looked after first, and you get whatever is left. But what's left at nine at night isn't you — it's the part of you that never got to rest.

The next five pages don't ask you to be a better parent. Nothing here is counted, nothing is reported, and not one of them is for your child. They're all for you, and they aren't a reward you have to earn first.

What's on them isn't random either. Every parenting style spends itself differently: some parents run out from anticipating, some from deciding, some from holding everybody's feelings. So whatever drains you most is also what most needs releasing.

WHAT DRAINS YOU MOST

P

HOW YOU ORGANIZE THE DAY

Anticipating. Your head keeps running even when your body sits down.

C

WHO SETS THE DIRECTION

Steering. You're the one who always has to know the next move.

D

WHEN THE FEELINGS GET BIG

Doing. Loving through action means you rarely get to sit down.

E

COMFORT ZONE OR STRETCH ZONE

Being the energy. Every bit of the fun sets off from you first.

FOR YOU FIRST

Hand one small decision to someone else. You may step out of mission control without making the family lose direction.

HOW TO USE THESE

Take just one. If only one of these gets used this week, that worked. The rest stay here; they aren't going anywhere.

No time this week? You are still enough.

TIME 5 MIN

One drink while it's still hot

Almost every parent drinks their coffee cold. Not from lack of time, but because there is always one more thing that comes first.

Sit down. Finish the whole thing at its actual temperature, doing nothing else at the same time.

TIME 15 MIN

An empty block on the calendar

If every hour has a name, there is nowhere for recovery to happen. This block succeeds by staying empty.

Put one block in the calendar with nothing in it. Defend it the way you'd defend a meeting with someone else.

TIME 5 MIN

The not-mine list

Some of what you're carrying genuinely isn't yours. Writing it down is more honest than promising to stop thinking about it.

Write three things that are not yours to fix today. Read them once, then leave the paper somewhere you'll see it.

TIME 15 MIN

Move for no output

Your body moves all day, but always while carrying or clearing something. Movement that isn't going anywhere feels different.

Stretch, walk, dance in the kitchen. Anything that isn't carrying, tidying, or getting somewhere.

TIME 2 MIN

Twenty minutes earlier

The next adventure is better funded by sleep than by will. This is two minutes of setting, not twenty of losing.

Set one alarm tonight — not to wake up, to stop.

5 activities with your child (0–5)

One for each age range, so you can take the one that fits your child right now. Everything is already in your house.

THEN, FOR YOUR CHILD

Before you fix the problem, one sentence that recognizes the feeling can help your child feel accompanied rather than managed.

0–12 MONTHS · 10 MIN

The texture tour

Naming what a baby is touching builds language long before they can talk.

1. Pick five safe textures: a curtain, a cool window, a wooden spoon, a leaf, a towel.
2. Let their hand land first, then name it.
3. Wait for their sound or look before moving on.

You'll need: Your own house.
Safety first: Skip anything hot, sharp, electrical, or small enough to fit through a toilet-paper tube.
Grounded in: Serve and return (Harvard)

1–2 YEARS · 10 MIN

In, out, again

Repetition isn't boredom to a toddler — it's how they confirm the world is predictable.

1. Cut one hand-sized hole in a box lid, or use a wide-mouth jar.
2. Show it once, slowly, then hand it over.
3. Let them repeat it far past the point where you're bored.

You'll need: A box or wide jar, plus large objects: jar lids, blocks, wooden rings.
Safety first: Every object larger than a toilet-paper tube, and no cut edges on the hole.
Grounded in: Montessori — order

2–3 YEARS · 10 MIN

Pour from a small jug

The classic Montessori presentation: show once, then hand over control completely.

1. Half-fill a small jug and set two cups on a tray.
2. Pour once, slowly, without narrating.
3. Put the cloth where they can reach it and say nothing about spills.

You'll need: A small unbreakable jug and two unbreakable cups, a tray, a cloth.

Safety first: Room-temperature water only. Use light, unbreakable vessels and keep an adult within arm's reach.

Grounded in: Montessori — practical life

3–4 YEARS · 15 MIN

You're the customer

For parents who show love by doing: here the doing is theirs, and you're the one being served.

1. They cook, you order and eat.
2. Accept whatever arrives, including the inedible parts of the game.
3. Slip in one feeling word somewhere: "you look proud of that one".

You'll need: Pots, spoons, cups — whatever is already in the toy box.

Safety first: Nothing from the real stove.

Grounded in: Filial therapy — special play time

4–5 YEARS · 15 MIN

The cushion course

They design it, you attempt it. Being the rule-maker is practice they rarely get.

1. They design the course and set the rules.
2. You go first, and follow their rules exactly.
3. Let them change the rules mid-course, because they will.

You'll need: Cushions, tape, chairs, a blanket.

Safety first: Use only stable, non-folding chairs. Nothing to climb higher than their own hip, with an adult staying close.

Grounded in: Montessori — freedom of movement

No play today? You are still enough.

Keep it, print it, or forget it

This booklet has no targets and counts nothing. Take the one thing that helps and leave the rest.

SUPPORT PARENTEERS

saweria.co/parenteers

Your support helps us keep creating useful products for more parents.

@parenteers parenteers.id

Made with ❤️ (and cold coffee) by Parenteers · © Parenteers 2026

For fun & reflection — not a clinical assessment or diagnostic tool.